Prop. 2 Gives Aid to 'No Growth' With Property Owner's Financing

When the homeowner feels confused about what the federal government is doing to them under the guise of aiding its citizens, he can't always get a valid explanation from his state representative. He's sometimes confused, too.

It grows even more disturbing when a state lawmaker takes to task his own lawmaking body on a proposition sponsored by his fellow lawmakers.

State Senator H. L. "Bill" Richardson is one of our better lawmakers and he is also the complainant. The subject is Proposition 2.

Sen. Richardson found state and federal authorities adamant in their determination to get a quarter billion dollars of your money, so he is appealing to the people.

Using the ballot is one of the few ways the people can make their objections known. In his bill of particulars, which follows he tells of the misguidance involved in the so called "Park Bill."

Proposition 2 on the November ballot authorizes the sale of $280 million dollars in bonds to finance the purchase of "potential" parkland. One might naturally assume that the government was fresh out of "potential parkland, but in reality the exact opposite appears to be true.

At the present time, government owns approximately half of all the land in the entire State of California. Much of this land has never been developed and, in many cases, it is closed to the public.

Many believe that it would be far more prudent to invest money in developing land already owned by the government. Yet, instead of developing this land, funds from Proposition 2 will primarily be used to purchase more land. Only a fraction of the money will actually be used to provide new parks and recreation areas.

In any event, the California taxpayer must pick up the tab for the entire $280 million. Incidentally, the interest alone on this sum will amount to more than 175 million dollars.

Voters may recall that in 1974, they were asked to approve a similar bond measure for $250 million. What happened to all of that money? Has it all been spent?

The answer to that question is no. Not only has the money not been spent, but a substantial portion of the bonds have not even been sold, and won't be until 1978. Even if one believed we need more government-owned land, which is questionable, it is apparent that we already authorized more bonds than are necessary.

But let us assume for the moment that Proposition 2 passes. What are the likely results? First of all, the State will be deducting taxes from your paycheck in the year 2000 to pay for Proposition 2.

In the meantime, the State will be buying much of the land surrounding our major cities. This will serve to drive up the price of both land and housing as the amount of privately-held property decreases.

Of course, higher property prices mean higher property taxes. To make matters worse, the property tax base will continue to shrink. You see, the government does not pay property taxes on the land which it owns, so the homeowner must make up the difference.

Proponents claim that more government-owned recreational facilities will boost tourism in California. While this is undoubtedly true, it is questionable who will benefit. The government will reap the lion's share of the profits from entrance fees, concession sales and camping facilities. The fact is that under Proposition 2 an ever-increasing share of the tourism dollar will go directly into government coffers.

Through government control of tourism, the citizens of California will still suffer all of the disadvantageous effects on the environment caused by increased tourism while receiving few, if any, of the economic benefits. Frankly, nothing could be worse for California's overtaxed environment or sagging economy.

At a time when city and state government across the nation are in deep financial trouble, we must also question the wisdom of plunging headlong into a massive debt spending spiral. And even if Californians were anxious to go the way of New York City, there are certainly more worthy economic goals than increasing the government's land holdings.

Let's look at the bright side though. When you're waiting behind all those out-of-state cars to get into one of those new parks purchased with your tax dollars, maybe you'll run into someone from New York City. They say that misery loves company so perhaps you can while away the hours discussing high property taxes and public debt.

Grove's Version of 'Great Debates'

School Board Candidates Face Public In Forums Tonight, Next Thursday

By John Kowalczyk

Tonight and next Thursday five school board candidates will square off in what may be described as the Lemon Grove equivalent to the Carter-Ford debates.

School board hopefuls Bernard Brandt, Carol Chubb, Todd Keegan, Craig Lake and Charles Pennell have been invited to say a few words tonight after a San Altos PTA open house and meeting and to partake of a more lengthy public forum at Lemon Grove Junior High next week.

The top vote-getter wins an abbreviated term which goes up for reelection in March next year. But incumbency will undoubtedly weigh heavily in favor of November's winner.

The vacancy was created because John Linn resigned earlier this year when his family moved out of the district. Linn's four-year term expires at the end of March.

School secretary Grace Vezzani said the San Altos presentation will follow a "very short" business meeting at 7:30 p.m. which in turn, follows a parent-teacher open house at 7:15.

Lemon Grove voters are invited to hear the five contenders describe their qualifications under a three-minute countdown.

The audience will not be prevented from asking questions following the talks, Vezzani said.

San Altos School is at 1750 Madera street.

Big Debate Thursday

The two presidential candidates make their final confrontation on national television on Friday, October 22, but the Lemon Grove five will meet the public for their third and final time the evening before.

Lemon Grove Jr. High auditorium, 7866 Lincoln st., is the setting. Starting time is 7 p.m.

"This will be the first in-depth opportunity for the candidates to do some public speaking as well as react to some of the problems presented to them by the community," said Barry Bernasconi, chairman of the committee organizing the forum.

Bernasconi is a member of the Monterey Heights Community School Advisory Council which is co-sponsoring the evening with Golden Avenue Community School and the Effective Problem Intervention Center (EPIC).

Prepared Questions

Each candidate will be given five minutes to respond to four prepared questions posed by monitor Neale Clifford, head librarian at the Lemon Grove County Library branch.

Candidates will be asked to list their qualifications and describe their personal background. They will be expected to discuss their familiarity with the school district and explain why they want the school board seat.

The five have ample time to prepare answers. Each was given a copy of the question list at a PTA meeting at Vista La Mesa school two weeks ago when the candidates met publicly for the first time. That gathering was more of a tea-and-cookies social than a forum, however.

After the planned questions have been answered, visitors will be permitted to question any single candidate or address the group as a whole. Candidates will have two minutes to field each question.

Voter's Choice

The candidates, with a wide difference in backgrounds and interests, have only one common denominator: a desire to win the seat. They offer the voter a wide choice.

Ages range from 24 to 50 and professions from homemaker to government administrator.

Bernard H. Brandt, resident at 2836 Cornelius pl., is the senior candidate at 50. Brandt, a former painting contractor, is director of a non-denominational, non-profit Christian outreach program dedicated to spreading the New Testament word of God. The four-year-old organization operates a thrift store in San Diego and offers individual counseling.

Carole Chubb is the sole woman candidate. A homemaker who lives at 1909 La Corta st., Mrs. Chubb has participated in numerous local clubs and organizations, including 12 years with PTA groups in the Lemon Grove School District.

She feels that the school board needs a woman member.

Todd Keegan, 24, is an assistant store manager for Genesco Retail Shoes in Grossmont Shopping Center, La Mesa. A bachelor resident of 7231 Balkis ln., Keegan has attended Mesa and Grossmont Jr. Colleges and San Diego State, has managed Little League and coached Boys Club basketball.

Craig Lake, 28, owns Dell Enterprises, Inc., a trophy and engraving store on Broadway. Lake, a member of the Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors, was raised in Lemon Grove and attended Lemon Grove schools.

He has worked with Mt. Miguel's Key Club as its advisor through the Lemon Grove Kiwanis Club and was a counselor in the Regional Occupation Program.

Lake lives at 1524 Skyline dr.

Charles Pennell, 38, is the Assistant Director of the County Department of Substance Abuse, a million-dollar alcohol and drug prevention program. Prior to that, Pennell directed the Drug Education For You (DEFY) program.

He lives at 2115 Craig court.

Five candidates are usually enough for any election, but if voters aren't satisfied with that field, they may, of course, opt for a write-in.

The deadline for candidates to appear on the ballot has passed, but write-ins have until October 25 to register their intentions with the County Registrar of Voters, according to Joanna Carlson, election division supervisor. None have, so far.

Next week's forum won't interest voters outside Lemon Grove, but it's bound to clear up some uncertainty in the minds of voters on the area's only local ballot item.

Bernasconi expects the EPIC/Community Schools debate to draw the largest of the three crowds.

"A lot of people will come out of the woodwork for this one," he predicts.

7 Questions Prepared

Kenrick, Moore Invited To VdO Planning Meeting

Another opportunity to meet the candidates cropped up this week.

The Valle de Oro Planning Association has invited Lucille Moore and Walt Kenrick, the two candidates running for 2nd district county supervisor, to answer questions on local issues at its next meeting, October 20.

The League of Women Voters is sponsoring and is organizing the presentation to be held in Room 1002 at Monte Vista High, 3230 Sweetwater Springs blvd., beginning at 7:30 p.m.

It was not confirmed at press time whether both candidates could attend, but both were invited.

Seven questions have been prepared for the candidates.

Both will be asked to describe how they feel about growth management in the area and what they think are the best techniques for controlling growth.

They will be asked whether they think there is a viable future for the planning groups once the County General Plan is amended to include the Valle de Oro Community Plan, which is nearing adoption.

Other questions to be posed are:

What will happen to parkland dedication money in the county budget if the park district issue in Spring Valley fails?

What is your public transportation policy for the Valle de Oro area?

What are your thoughts on the future of the VdO area regarding incorporation vs. unincoporation or annexation.

How do you stand on growth controls and the general development of the Rancho San Diego area.

A review of the Valle de Oro plan and an opportunity for public comment is also planned for next week's meeting, in case some people could not attend the VdO Citizen's Executive Committee (CEC) hearing yesterday.

The CEC is the county appointed body responsible for drawing up the VdO community plan.

Board Hears Parents Gripe About Bus Cuts

By John Kowalczyk

Lemon Grove School Board meetings seldom get hot.

Most nights, matters are discussed and decisions made with little controversy, and school officials usually far outnumber the audience.

Such was not the case Tuesday when more than 20 parents representing the Broadway Heights Community Association crammed the board's meeting room in the Lincoln ave. Ed Center to complain about the cutting of school bus service to junior high students this year.

The group posed their initial complaint at a September 28 meeting, but the matter was continued to allow the board to gain a firsthand knowledge.

Superintendent Robert Sutton discovered that 27 junior high students in Broadway Heights, a segment of San Diego City which falls into the Lemon Grove School District, are affected by the cuts. Another 23 from that area attend elementary school in Lemon Grove.

Parents complained that excessive traffic and inadequate sidewalks and public transportation present safety hazards to their children. Several felt the 2- to 2½-mile walk to school was an unreasonable distance.

Sutton walked the distance himself one morning and con-

County Program Begins Oct. 23

Limited Swine Flu Vaccine Arrives; More on the Way

San Diego's first shipment of swine flu vaccine has arrived. However, according to local public health officials, it was a limited one.

"Only 85,000 doses were received," said Dr. John R. Philp director of public health. "75,000 of these are of the bivalent type, intended only for high risk populations." He explained that this includes persons 60 years of age and over and anyone three years and over who suffers from a chronic disease.

Chronic diseases include those of the heart, lungs, bronchial tubes, kidneys and metabolism, such as diabetes, as well as cancer and neuromuscular diseases such as muscular dystrophy.

"Such early shipments for high risk groups," Dr. Philp continued, "adhere to the national guidelines developed earlier this year when public health officials still envisioned a special late summer campaign for high risk groups and a later, separate one for the general population."

Philp said that contracts have been mailed out to those institutions which normally care for persons in the high risk groups such as nursing homes and senior citizen clinics.

The County's mass swine flu immunization campaign will be launched October 23 and will continue through November 7 as planned.

"Our special flu clinic information telephone lines are now operating from 7:30 a.m. to 7 p.m. weekdays," Dr. Philp added.

Anyone interested in learning when and where to go for their flu shots during the mass campaign may call 236-2227 if they live in metropolitan San Diego, 758-3210 if they live in the North County.

Clinics to Assist Swine Flu Program

Most County Health Department clinics will suspend normal functions from October 21 through November 5 to help implement the county's swine flu immunization program, it was learned this week.

More than 150 mass clinics will be held throughout the county during the campaign. Secondary health centers will be needed as flu vaccine distribution and supply points.

Not all clinic activities will be curtailed, however. All V.D. clinics will continue to operate as scheduled. In addition, the Primary Health Center's tuberculosis and immunizattion clinics will continue to function at 1600 Pacific Highway, San Diego.

Health Department clinics will resume their normal schedules after November 8.

Local School Trustees In First Mex-Am Confab

Trustees of the Lemon Grove, La Mesa-Spring Valley and Grossmont Union school districts will be among several hundred persons attending the western region Mexican American School Boards conference Friday through Sunday at San Diego's Royal Inn at the Wharf.

Sponsored by the California Mexican American School Boards Assn., the three-day meeting will be the first of its kind held on the West coast and will include delegates from Arizona, Colorado, New Mexico and Texas.

Speakers at the conclave will include Lt. Gov. Mervyn Dymally, U.S. Congressman Edward Roybal, Philip Montez, director of the U.S. Civil Rights Commission's western region, and Dr. John Molina, national director of bilingual education.

Association president Fred Godinez, Jr., a trustee of the Stockton Unified School District, will open the meeting's first general session at 1 p.m. Friday after trustees have visited selected San Diego schools.

Godinez said delegates will discuss collective bargaining in schools, reform in intermediate and secondary education, federal aid programs, bilingual education and community involvement.

Trustees also will take part in table talks in which school board members will discuss and ask questions about specific topics of current interest.

Juvenile Diversion Program Aids First-time Offenders

A Juvenile Diversion Program, initiated by the Sheriff's Department, will divert youthful first time offenders from the criminal justice system. It will also provide juvenile investigations with additional options for handling juveniles and counseling in an attempt to prevent delinquent behavior.

Sheriff John Duffy said the main thrust of the program is aimed at the first-time offender who is in need of guidance, but whose offense is not serious enough to warrant referral to the Probation Department.

The Sheriff has assigned a deputy at each of the four major Sheriff's Stations to full-time duty as a Juvenile Diversion Officer.

In Lemon Grove, Deputy Tom Nelson, a juvenile detective for six of his 14 years as a deputy, including one year as a Youth Service Bureau counselor, is in charge of the Lemon Grove-Spring Valley areas.

The other three officers will be at Vista, Santee and Encinitas.

The juvenile diversion officers will work with the arresting officers in investigating each case, then after meeting with the juvenile and his parents, will determine which of the three options is most appropriate. Those options are: (1) Counseling by the officer and released, (2) Voluntary diversion to a community agency, or (3) Referral to the Probation Department.

Duffy emphasized that cases strong enough to warrant a petition to Juvenile Court will continue to be handled that way.

He said juvenile offenders will be a candidate for diversion provided the juvenile is not a ward of Juvenile Court nor is in a program of informal supervision by Probation, or if a pattern of delinquency has not been established, or if Juvenile Court action is not required by the severity of the offense.

Case of the Missing Transmission

An employee of the L&S Auto Repair, at 2835 Imperial ave., Lemon Grove, told sheriff's deputies last week that he saw a white male carrying an aluminum transmission case nearby.

Later, it was discovered that the case was taken from the repair shop and the value was $125.

Malicious Mischief

Religion History Traced on Stage

Religious history on the stage is a current undertaking of the San Diego County Ecumenical Conference.

The Conference is coordinating a theological theatre piece called "Faiths of America" to be presented by the religious community of San Diego on Sunday, November 14 at 7:30 p.m. at the Civic Theatre in downtown San Diego.

In a blend of narration, music and dance, the pageant will outline the history of religious development in the United States. It was written by the Rev. Lawrence Waddy of St. James by the Sea Episcopal Church, La Jolla and is being staged by the Rev. Mikel Taxer, pastor of Westminster Presbyterian Church.

"On an austerely elegant state, reminiscent of Thorton Wilder's 'Our Town', we will evoke memories of our religious, historical roots," Taxer said.

Included in the performance will be the musical selections "If We Only Had Love" and "Alone" from Jacques Brel, and "Mama Look Sharp" from "1776".

In a featured monologue, black actress Furahaa Saba will deliver an impassioned plea for justice written by Nikki Giovanni, a black poetess.

The Vanguard Dance Theatre will perform the choreographic numbers. A massed choir, composed of members from local churches and synagogues, is under the direction of Lois Conzoneri. The audience will be invited to join the choir at several points during the pageant.

Tickets for the event are on sale at First Presbyterian Church, 320 Date st., San Diego. Ground level seats are $2. Upper level seats are $1.50. Patron seats are $5. No reserve seating is available.

LG Woman Ordained Scientology Minister

Carolyn Criss Lickert of 3565 Harris st., Lemon Grove, was ordained a minister of the Church of Scientology in San Diego.

Services were conducted by Rev. Lauren S. Allen of the Church, September 26, at Inspiration Point in Presidio Park.

The open air ceremony performed for seventeen canidates was the largest of its kind conducted in San Diego County, the new Rev. Lickert said.

"Our church's rapid growth in San Diego County and our constantly increasing involment in community affairs and social reform programs necessitates an ever expand-ministry to handle this," she said. "And my ordainment gives me the opportunity to afford spiritual progress to not only my parishioners, but the world."

Ordination in the Church of Scientology requires the equivalent of four years of seminary studies within the church, as well as considerable study of the other major religions of the world.

"It is interesting to note that with all the recent controversy over the role of women in the ministry, ten of the sixteen others ordained were ladies," Rev. Lickert said.

As part of her campaign responsibilities, Anderson, of La Mesa, will call on businesses and public service organizations in La Mesa, Spring Valley and Lemon Grove.

She is one of four loaned executives responsible for 70 per cent of the $301,550 East County goal.

This year, 41 leading firms and organizations in San Diego County are providing the services of staff executives to assist in raising the county-wide goal of $8,150,000.

The annual UNITED WAY/CHAD campaign provides operating funds for a hundred health and human care agencies whose services reach one in every three San Diego County residents.

In addition to her campaign position, Anderson heads, the San Diego Chapter of the American Society for Industrial Security, a member of the National Classification Management Society and of the Order of the Eastern Star.

She was awarded the James S. Cogswell Award in 1973, the highest award for industrial safety presented by the U. S. Department of Defense.

School Act, Administrator Share 30th Anniversary

Cafeteria Director Runs Lemon Grove's Busiest Kitchen

By John Kowalczyk

One day back in 1946 Lemon Grove school board member Hazel Dickerhoff asked Ruth Pfister, a Lemon Grove parent and professional seamstress, to help out in the cafeteria for a couple weeks.

Those two weeks turned into a career spanning more than 30 years as Lemon Grove's first and (so far) only food service director.

Back in the early days, when Lemon Grove school was the only public education building in the district, Mrs. Pfister quickly became the person responsible for preparing 200 meals a day.

Today, a consolidated cafeteria staff of 28 whips up 2000 meals daily for six elementary and two junior high schools plus two senior citizen nutrition centers.

The lunchroom load easily makes hers the busiest kitchen in Lemon Grove.

This year the American School Food Services Association honored its members of 300 or more years at a national convention in Hawaii. Mrs. Pfister was one of less than 20 in California and one of a possible two in the country to be so honored.

30th Anniversaries

Her 30th year with the school district coincides with the 30th anniversary of the National School Lunch Act, legislation guaranteeing wholesome school meals.

The anniversary is marked during National School Lunch Week, mandated for the second week of October by President Kennedy in the early 60s.

Yesterday, Lemon Grove schools not withstanding, school eateries throughout the country celebrated with a universal meal: "All American Circus".

Main attraction was hot dog on a bun, beside "Ring Master's Vegetable Beef Soup," "Side Show Orange Wedges," "Happy Clown's Tutti-Frutti Crisp" and "Midway Milk."

Monthly menu sheets with a similar personal touch are some of the sidelights of Mrs. Pfister's galley. While the main function of the menus are to present the month-by-month bill-of-fare, a bit of nutritional wisdom or a theme meal built around a historic date or holiday, may occasionally sneak onto the pages.

In February children were treated to "President's Table," a meal offering such palate pleasers as "Chicken Mt. Vernon" with "Salad Monticello."

"We don't always have time to print little extras on the menus, but we do whenever we get the chance," she said.

Lunches haven't changed much, but nutritional quality has improved during those 30 years.

"We try to cater to the wants of the children without skimping on their needs," she explained.

The district's lunch planner subscribes to the tried but true expression, "Variety is the spice of life."

Aside from an occasional repeat of a Lemon Grove favorite — tostadas, pizza and spaghetti are popular — no meal is rescheduled within a 20-day cycle.

Each lunch is balanced and contains a third to a half of a child's nutritional requirements. "We also try to make meals attractive and colorful," the director added.

Nutrition consciousness is an oft-mentioned subject of Mrs. Pfister who believes education on good heating habits should be stressed much more than it is in the classroom.

"The time to teach good eating habits is when the child is young," she said. "Good eating should begin in the home, of course, but we should continue it here at school."

"Eating and good nutrition are more important to our health than many people realize. If we develop good eating habits, we'll probably live longer, happier lives."

She commended Lemon Grove teachers for doing what they can to promote good nutritional habits, even though the subject is not a separate study in the classroom.

Mrs. Pfister says television junk food commercials are major culprits working to the detriment of good eating, but she is encouraged by growing public awareness of the harmful promotions.

"We're seeing improvements. PTAs and other consumer interest groups are putting more pressure on advertisers to promote more nutritious foods."

Busy Schedule

Since Lemon Grove's is a relatively small school district, Mrs. Pfister handles a job which might require several people in a larger operation.

She serves as the administrator of the food program, the school's nutritionist, menu planner and cafeteria staff supervisor.

CHIEF OF COOKS — Ruth Pfister, Lemon Grove's busiest cook, celebrates 30 years in the kitchens of Lemon Grove public schools this year. She is the school district's director of food services and is responsible for preparing 2000 meals a day.

But there is still plenty of professional topping to the woman with the temporary job-turned-career. For instance, she is a charter member of the Lemon Grove-Spring Valley Soroptimist International (established in 1958) and the brainchild of the hot lunch program for senior citizens in Lemon Grove, sponsored by the Soroptimissts and other service organizations.

She is also a member and past-president of the California Food Service Association.

Last year the Association declared her an honorary lifetime member.

Long-time membership in the California Association of School Business Officials is also to her credit.

New Kitchen

She is one of the few regular faces in the audience at Lemon Grove school board meetings, which may have helped bring about the current $50,000 kitchen improvement project the governing board implemented this year.

That work has moved the entire cafeteria staff to smaller quarters at nearby Golden Avenue school.

When builders complete the project, paid for by government subsidy plus a 5-cent local tax subsidy, the Lemon Grove Jr. High kitchen will have many modern facilities and equipment more in line with Health Department standards.

In particular, the County has been after the school district to replace a large range hood system.

The project is the tail-end of a plan to phase into central cooking facilities for the district, a move expected to result in long-range savings.

Construction, says Mrs. Pfister, is supposed to be completed in November.

The woman in charge of food at Lemon Grove schools is also the wife of Rudolph Pfister, a retired Convair employee turned amateur golfer. Both are transplanted Nebraskans, parents to two and grandparents of six.

They have lived in Lemon Grove since relocating here in 1941.

'Finsterhall'... a Rabbit Anyone Can Learn to Love

By Max Goodwin

There are various forms of communicating. In the field John Sinor does it better than most writers.

His daily column in the Evening Tribune has knitted together thousands of fans.

Now he's in books. ("Eleven Albatrosses in My Bluebird Tree" a gathering of his columns about Sinor's 11 children made the best-seller list a few months ago.

A few days ago he produced another book — one that is sure to capture the Christmas book list for youngsters. He titled it "Finsterhall of San Pasqual."

Now, everyone knows San Pasqual is the locale of San Diego's famed Wild Animal Park. Soon they will discover that "Finst" . . . pardon . . . "Finsterhall" is a naive, playful jackrabbit, who is prone to fainting and whose family tree predates the Wild Animal Park.

Wouldn't you be excited if you were a jackrabbit who never saw anything bigger than a coyote and suddenly you came across an elephant track? Especially if you didn't know what an elephant was?

How the new park-world copes with Finsterhall and his relatives is an intriguingly interesting story based on actual events in the development of the park.

There are four great groups for whom "Finsterhall" will have irrepressible appeal. There are young readers who will find the story exciting. There is a two-part group made up of those who are too young to read — and the adults who will read "Finsterhall" to them. And the fourth group is the gift-givers. Those who learn about Finsterhall and can't wait to get it into the hands of the other three groups (after reading it themserves, first, of course).

The book is not long — 78 pages. But those who become exposed to the book's characters will agree that learning is fun as Sinor unwinds factual information in following the antics of the lovable jackrabbit and other animals.

It's available now at better bookstores.

Warning: It is also educational! But don't tell the kiddies that it is.

Lung Research Grants Made

Twenty lung disease research teams in California have been awarded Christmas Seal research grants, according to Dr. Richard Schillaci, President of the Lung Assn. of San Diego and Imperial Counties.

The grants, totaling $97,925, were drawn from a special California Research and Medical Education Fund, which is supported by Christmas Seal dollars raised locally and across the state. In determining these annual awards, the Lung Association gives "seed money," relatively small grants, to a substantial number of investigators who are just initiating their research programs.

French Comedy Leads Globe's New International Season

A French romantic comedy, "Ring Round the Moon," is the current attraction of the International Season at the Old Globe Theatre.

Producing Director Craig Noel is staging the play with action taking place during spring of 1913 in the winter garden of a French chateau. The Jean Anouilh comedy is performed through November 7, nightly except Monday at 8 p.m. plus Sunday afternoons at 2 p.m.

Identical twin brothers in "Ring Round the Moon" are the center of varied romantic entanglements. Shy and sensitive Frederic is mistaken for his heartless and aggressive brother, Hugo. Frederic is silently in love with a wealthy sophisticate, though she is secretly in love with the brother.

A parallel plot involves the private secretary to a millionaire who is having a secret affair with the mistress of his employer.

Old Globe is celebrating its fortieth anniversary as a non-profit organization. The contemporary American drama "The Sea Horse" is currently staged at the Carter Centre Stage, adjacent to the Old Globe Theatre in Balboa Park, through October 24. Other nationalities of authors represented during the 1976-77 international season of ten plays, which continue through May, include English, Swiss, Polish, Italian and Australian.

3-Game Mariners Homestand Opens With Calgary Saturday

The Mariners begin a three-game home stand this weekend and coach Ron Ingram is hoping early World Hockey Assn. statistics hold up for his skaters.

San Diego hosts Calgary, Saturday, defending WHA champ Winnipeg on Sunday and Indianapolis, October 21, all at 7 p.m., before embarking on a six-game, ten-day road trip. Calgary and Winnipeg are in the Western Division with the Mariners while Indy is a part of the six-team Eastern makeup.

Prior to Saturday's Sports Arena contest, the club was to visit Quebec, Tuesday, and Minnesota, Friday.

The first week of the 1976-77 campaign saw San Diego open with a 7-7 tie against visiting Cincinnati. Of the twelve games played in the WHA's initial week, the home clubs gained 11 wins and the Mariner tie.

Pre-season predictions built San Diego's possible success around strong goaltending and a tough defense but neither was in evidence in the Cincinnati deadlock. Ingram was annoyed enough to call a rare Sunday practice the following day.

He was pleased with the performance of Gary Veneruzzo-Andre Lacroix-Wayne Rivers line that accounted for five goals and nine assists including a hat trick by Veneruzzo.

"We got the first game jitters out of the way and now we've got to settle right down and concentrate," he said.

"The home team is coming up with the wins and we'll need points before we start on the road," Ingram added.

The Mariners added one player and dropped five others in a last minute bit of preparation for the season. Defenseman Randy Legge, a free agent after playing at WHA Cleveland and North American League Mohawk Valley last year, was inked.

Gone are goaltender Bob Blanchet, center Norm Cournoyer and wingers Tony Cassolato and Tim O'Connell to Southern League Charlotte and goalie Ken Holland to NAHL Binghamton.

Monarchs Beat Winless Sultans

Monte Vista capitalized on fumbles, penalties and a lackluster offense to dominate the Santana varsity in a 21-7 win on the Monarch's home field Friday.

Mike Assof, who carried the ball 122 yards in 14 tries, set up the opening TD with a 55-yard run in the second quarter.

Vern Cramer ran it in from the four and upped the score to 14-0 after the half with a 33-yard run.

Assof followed with a 22-yard run in the third quarter. Both third quarter scores resulted from Santana fumbles.

The Sultans prevented a shutout in the waning seconds of the game on a 14-yard pass. It was their first touchdown of the season.

Monte Vista faces stiffer competition in El Capitan Friday. The Monarchs are 2-0-1 in Grossmont League play.

24 Drivers to Line Up For ECSCRA's Open Sat.

El Cajon Speedway's Stock Car Racing Assn's. open competition finale, with a $5,000 purse on the line, will become embattled in a 100-lap scramble to test those who have banged away at fame and fortune for the past 23 weeks at the popular 3/8th-miles asphalt oval.

Qualifications begin at 6:30 with a Trophy Dash at 8. Then 20 car consolation and a 40-lap semi-main will be run off to make way for the 24-car 100-lap grand finale with competitors from other California tracks and from Las Vegas.

Holding the season's ECSCRA crown—his fourth—and out to prove he's worthy, is Pat McIntyre of Spring Valley.

Ron Esau and Tim Biggers of El Cajon, and Lanny Pemberton and Gary Beecroft of Lemon Grove, must be dealt with before any driver can win.

Rules call for the stock car entries to be of 1955 or later with a 108-inch wheel base minimum. The super stocks will return for an El Cajon Junior Chamber of Commerce benefit show, November 19.

McIntyre, who maintains he will reduce the number of races in which he'll enter next season, would like to use the 100 lapper to close in on the all-time main event leadership.

With his two main event triumphs this season, he has now reached 27.

Pat has won championships in 1972, '73 '75 and '76. Cajon Speedway officials hope to hit the 115,000 plateau in total attendance. Thru last week's California Racing Assn. sprint car race, 111,312 racegoers have attended the programs at the Cajon oval.

Griffs Seek 1st Win Ever Over Mt. Sac

Fresh off their top offensive performance in years, coach Dave Jordan's Grossmont College Griffins will go after their second South Coast Conference football victory of 1976 Saturday night at 7:30 in Walnut against undefeated Mt. San Antonio College.

The Griffins, who are 1-0 in conference play and 4-1 against all-comers, will be meeting a Mountie team which has won four and tied one in 1976.

In addition, Grossmont has never beaten Mt. SAC in four tries. A year ago, the Mounties defeated the Griffs, 14-10, in Aztec Bowl by returning a blocked field goal attempt for the winning touchdown.

Mt. SAC football teams also own victories over the Griffins in 1964 (28-6), 1963 (14-10) and 1962 (28-0).

In their SCC opener last Saturday against Cerritos, the Griffins piled up 549 yards total offense en route to an easy 23-6 victory over the visiting Falcons.

Griff quarterback Jim Freitas completed 16 of 25 passes for 305 yards and two touchdowns. He's now hit on 69 of 110 passes for 894 yards and nine scores.

TAKE FIVE

By John E. Wirges

Now, hold up. Wait, settle down. What are you trying to do to us now. It's . . . why it's downright unAmerican.

Of all the folks in the world to do us dirt, here comes the San Diego Stadium Authority ready to fling a forkful in our face.

It isn't as if there were not problems that could use a little attention around the super structure in Mission Valley. Good Lord, even semi-politicians like the Stadium Authority should be able to recognize us common herd having trouble getting in, getting out and finding a place to park between those two-story, double-space mobile family homes that park caddiewhampus (cq) across three parking lanes and set dinner table, bar-b-cue hibachi, and portable bar in another during early morning hours on game days.

It's getting to a point of near stupidity. You drive into a space between two of these mobile condos an hour before game time and you get a dirty look from the master of the mobile manor.

"I hope you plan to leave right after the game," he snorts in threatening tones. "You parked right where we plan to have our "square-dancing" after dinner tonight."

Then turning to his wife he said, loud enough for most folks in the parking lot to hear, "I know'd we should have put up ropes and barricades."

If other "late-comers" arrive at the ball park an hour or so before kickoff, they suffer the same challenge. Once I saw a middle-aged couple's car surrounded by a throng of bearded, bare-foot types. The couple was forced to move on from the squatter-claimed touch football field.

There are parades, bands, dancing, parties and all sorts of doing going on before, after, and sometimes during, stadium happenings.

A lot of it is good clean fun, most of it is legal but none of it comes under the protection of Stadium Security.

And that's a fittin' problem for the Stadium Authority. Encourage the doing and provide a little sense of order and protection to the folks enjoying the fruits of a recreation facility THEY voted into being.

There certainly are problems at the stadium that need solving, some just need attention and others could use a considerable amount of work.

But the one thing folks going into the stadium do not need is some all-powerful, high-and-mighty demigod telling them they can't bring liquid refreshment into the game.

It's understandable why there is a limit on types of containers allowed. We can live with that. No bottles or cans. That's alright.

What with the level of officiating we see, it would just be too tempting to have a bottle or an empty beer can within reach when the blood gets hot and the juices start to flow.

But that's on the one hand. Now the Stadium Authority wants to hit the other mitt. That sanctimonious assemblage passed a measure on for San Diego City Council approval that would prevent anybody from bringing any kind of container into the stadium.

It sounds as if this self-serving seizure of our sovereign sanctity were styled to please Servomation Duchess, Inc., the stadium concessionaire. One wonders why.

Surely, with the prices charged on the stadium these days, Servomation folks are making enough to keep the wolf from the door.

It took years of hard work and dedicated experimentation for the college crowd to learn to mix lemon juice with the beer to knock down the head and funnel the non-suds into a plastic milk carton for enjoyment at the ball yard.

Vacuum bottles and reusable containers are and have been "legal" for use by stadium patrons since more than 72 per cent of the voting public went to the polls and directed construction of the facility in the late 1960's.

The Chargers were playing at Balboa Stadium then, and the Padres were a minor league club playing out of of Westgate Park. San Diego citizens saw the future and approved the stadium. We don't deserve betrayal.

'Alumni Day' to Draw Yesteryear Chargers

Kickoff time Sunday is 1:06 at the Stadium and good seats are available.

The chickens come home to roost.

Alumni Day Sunday at the Chargers game against the Houston Oilers will have at least one gamecock in the chickenhouse. That would be Oiler head coach Bum Phillips, a former defensive line coach of the Chargers from 1967 through 1971.

Under Phillips, Houston has become the defense Titan of the NFL. Through five games, the Oilers rank first in the American Conference in total defense, first in rushing defense and first in passing defense.

The other alumni will be more passive.

Alumni Day

More than 30 former Charger players will be honored Sunday. The list of returnees includes such stars as Lance Alworth, Paul Lowe, Keith Lincoln, Tobin Rote, Earl Faison, Ron Mix, Ernie Wright, Dave Kocourek, Charlie McNeil, Don Norton, Ernie Wright, Speedy Duncan and Dickie Post.

But the No. 1 Charger alumni is on the Oilers. It's their reserve quarterback John Hadl, who played at San Diego from 1961 through 1972 and was the trigger and heart of several outstanding Charger teams. Hadl moved to Houston this year and the 15-year veteran is a perfect passer—4 for 4 for 22 yards.

Other former Chargers with Houston are starting center Carl Mauck and reserve linebacker Tim Rossovich. Former assistant coach Joe Madro is director of scouting for the Oilers.

A weekend of alumni activities will begin Friday noon with a lunch sponsored by the Charger Backers at the Hilton Inn. The public is invited. For reservations, call Pat Rogers at the Chargers office at 280-2111.

Highlight of the weekend will be the inauguration of a Charger Hall of Fame.

Last week Mercury Morris scored with 4:06 elapsed in the fourth quarter to put the Chargers ahead of the Oakland Raiders, 17-14. But the Raiders came roaring back on the arm of Ken Stabler for two touchdowns and their 27-17 victory.

Charger quarterback Dan Fouts completed 16 of 31 passes for 249 yards. Charlie Joiner caught five for 108 yards. Rickey Young rushed for 67 yards on 14 attempts. Mitch Hoopes averaged 45.0 for six punts.

Linebacker Don Goode made 13 tackles. Tackle Louie Kelcher made 10 tackles. Mike Williams had an interception.

Next week the Chargers play the Browns at Cleveland at 10 a.m. (PST).

Aztecs Rest May Aid Battle With UoP Team

The tough Tigers of the U. of Pacific invade the Stadium Saturday for a 7:30 p.m. game with the Aztecs of State.

The Tigers are 2-3 on the season after belting Nevada (Las Vegas) 38-13 last week. The Aztecs are 3-1 on the season and are coming off a bye last week.

Pacific completely dominated Las Vegas, holding the Rebels to 232 yards total offense. Las Vegas went into the game as the nation's No. 2 ranked Division II team and was averaging 291 yards per game passing. Pacific held the Rebel to 175 passing yards and Las Vegas managed just 18 completions in 42 attempts, had three balls picked off, and saw their quarterback sacked seven times.

The Aztecs have regained the services of defensive end Gilbert Trevis (6-4½, 241) for the Pacific game. Travis was running as a starter in drills until he lamed a knee.

Wide receiver Kelvin O'Brien is also healthy for the first time since the start of fall drills and Kevin Feeney's ankle, which kept him out of the BYU game, is 100 per cent. The Aztecs did learn, however, that linebacker Garth De Felice is lost for the season with a knee injury.

San Diego State running back David (Deacon) Turner benefited from the bye last week and moved from third to second in the NCAA rushing statistics. Ricky Bell of USC leads the nation with 1007 yards in five games and a 201.4 average.

Turner is second with 641 yards and a 160.2 average in four games, while Jerome Persell of Western Michigan is third with 638 yards and a 159.5 average.

Persell was No. 1 last week, but gained just 97 yards on 26 carries against Kent State.

Aztec Cagers Workouts Start

Tim Vezie officially opens his third season as head coach of the State basketball team when the Aztecs report for practice tomorrow at 3 p.m. in Peterson Gym.

Vezie led the Aztecs to the NCAA Playoffs the past two seasons, but has only one starter back from last year's 16-13 club. Will Connelly (6-8, 205) is back and will move from center to forward to make room for 6-9½, 230 Fred Branch.

Connelly averaged 16.6 points and 8.9 rebounds last season. He was a first team all PCAA pack and was M.V.P. in the PCAA Tournament. He is the only returning Aztec starter.

Doubleheader Race Events at Riverside Sun.

The final leg of the Formula 5000 Championship and the second and third legs of the International Race of Champions is scheduled for Saturday and Sunday at the Riverside International Raceway.

The track is in Riverside, at the junction of U.S. 60 and 395 (I-15E).

Qualifying starts today at 1 p.m. and continues through Sunday noon, when the IROC III 75.6 mile race is run for a $60,000 purse.

The Formula 5000 event of 100.8 miles is to be off at 3 for a $200,000 purse.

Drivers in the two races are:

Formula 5000 Championship: Brian Redman, Al Unser, Vern Schuppan, Jackie Oliver, Brett Lunger, Alan Jones, Peter Gethin, Teddy Pilette, Danny Ongais, Warwick Brown, and Derek Bell.

IROC: A. J. Foyt, Johnny Rutherford, Al Unser, Gordon Johncock, David Pearson, Richard Petty, Cale Yarborough, Buddy Baker, James Hunt, Jody Scheckter, Al Holbert and Bobby Unser.

Tickets on Sunday range in price $4-$8.

Northridge Likely Winner In USD Game

The University of San Diego ventures into the Division II ranks of NCAA college football this week when it hosts California State U., Northridge, Saturday afternoon at 1 p.m. at USD Stadium.

The Toreros are 0-3-1 following Saturday's 10-0 shutout at the hands of the Whittier College Poets.

Cal State Northridge is 4-1 after defeating L.A. State 24-13.

The Matadors have established themselves as not only one of the top Division II teams on the west coast but in the nation as well. They were ranked 10th by an AP poll two weeks ago. That was prior to CSUN's only loss, a close 10-7 decision to Cal Poly SLO.

Much of the Matador's success is attributed to first year head coach Jack Elway. Elway arrived at CSUN from Washington State U where he was offensive coordinator.

Another reason the Matadors are playing so well is their fine offense. They ran up 420 yards total offense last week against L.A. State.

Kenrick Raps Opponent For 'Gutter Politics'

Walt Kenrick, candidate for District 2 board of supervisors has challenged his opponent, Lucille Moore — and the press —to produce "one shred of evidence of any illegal acts or other wrong-doing" on his part or on the part of his campaign workers.

He demanded that such evidence be produced now or to discontinue the gutter politics . . . of recent days.

Moore had charged that some $400 in funds from employees of the county had found a way to his campaign.

Kenrick, a law enforcement officer in San Diego County (Sheriff's lieutenant) said that in the past 20 years his integrity has never been challenged. "I am not a professional politician and that arena is a new field of education for me—but I am learning fast," he said.

"The ridiculous charges relating to illegal or improper finances in connection with my campaign have been invetsigated by the district attorney's office, and the findings, which have been made public, give me a clean bill of health.

"The facts are that I, in my campaign, have complied completely with every aspect of the law."

Gutter politics is not good enough for our district. We have had enough name-calling. The challenge to my integrity, the innuendo by my opponent must be stopped.

"There has been too much bickering and name-calling on the board of supervisors during the past four years. Mrs. Moore, by her actions, suggests that the same tactics would continue—if she is elected.

"There are far too many important issues in this campaign to hold our total interest to waste energy in name-calling," Kenrick said.

Cohelan's Cause is Seniors, He Says

Tim Cohelan, Democratic candidate for the 77th Assembly District, today pledged "the full resources of my public office to insure California's senior citizens a government more responsive to their specific needs and problems."

"There are more residents over 65 living in California than in any other state in the nation," Cohelan said, "and it is imperative that each one receives a fulfilling, comfortable life after 65; something many do not currently enjoy. The experience, wisdom and friendship offered by our mature citizenry is too often overlooked."

"Senior citizens' causes are everybody's causes: the right to quality health care, adequate meals and shelter, an end to age discrimination and a chance to contribute to society through meaningful jobs and volunteerism. We must begin now to improve the quality of life for our senior citizens and continue this effort in order to avoid falling back into a state of apathy in our treatment of one of our most valuable human resources," the Assembly candidate affirmed.

Walsh's Opponent Scores Proposition 14

Realtor Don Perry, speaking to the C.V. Republican Women's Club, cited four dangers of Proposition 14 in urging a "No" vote on the Farm Labor Initiative on the November 2 California ballot.

Perry, who was a candidate for District 1 San Diego County Supervisor opposing Jack Walsh in the June primary, said Proposition 14 is a threat to the personal property rights of all Californians.

He also stressed that the initiative, if passed, would remove control of the Agricultural Labor Relations Board from the State Legislature; remove ALRB from fiscal control of the Legislature, and would constitute an invasion of privacy in forcing employers to turn over lists of non-union employees for the use of labor organizers.

Candidate Tim Cohelan To Marry in December

The penalty for marrying a politician is that the announcement is run on the political page instead of the society section.

Thus it is as Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hopkins of Corona del Mar announce their daughter's forthcoming marriage to Attorney Cohelan, a candidate for state office.

Their daughter, Melinda, will marry Cohelan the Demoratic nominee for the 77th Assembly District on December 4 in a ceremony in Newport Beach.

Miss Hopkins was graduated from USC and for the past several years was U.S. Senator Alan Cranston's personal secretary.

Cohelan, a former naval officer, was graduated from the U. of Arizona and California Western Law School in San Diego.

Cohelan met his bride-to-be while he was Cranston's field representative.

The couple will reside in Clairemont.

Journalism Professor Opposes Proposition 14

Dr. James L. Julian, emeritus professior of journalism at San Diego State U. has been named San Diego chairman of the California Citizens for a Fair Farm Labor Law.

State Chairman Harry Kubo announced the appointment of Julian at a news conference in San Diego.

Julian is a former chairman of the department of journalism at SDSU. He currently is president of the San Diego Sigma Delta Chi (SDX) Foundation and former president of the SDX San Diego chapter.

In 1975 Dr. Julian was awarded the Wells Key by the National SDX as the member who has done the most for the Society the past year or previous years.

Dr. Julian and his wife, Joanne, have lived in La Mesa for 25 years.

Kubo in his news conference called upon the farmers in the nation to show Democratic Presidential Candidate Jimmy Carter how they support the California farmer in opposition to Prop. 14, the farm labor initiative on the November 2 ballot. Kubo said Carter's endorsement of the initiative showed a distressing lack of knowledge as to the harmful provisions contained in the ballot measure.

P.R. Man Heads Track

Robert P. Benoit former Director of Publicity and Advertising at Hollywood Park, was appointed senior vice president and general manager of the Inglewood facility.

Prior to being named vice president for six years up until November, Benoit served as senior vice president and general manager of the Inglewood track.

Zenovich, Chacon Urge Voters OK on Home Bill

Fresno State Senator George Zenovich was in town Thursday to take part in the kickoff of a campaign to Pass Proposition 1 on the November election.

He was hosted by Assemblyman Peter Chacon, of the 79th Assembly District who with Zenovich, sponsored the bill. They are also co-sponsors of a statewide committee urging the bill's passage.

If passed, $500 million will be loaned at low interest rates to guarantee loans from private lenders. It is intended to sharply expand the supply of homes in the $20,000-$30,000 price range.

All of the money will be paid back, similar to the loans made by the Cal Vet program and will not be a cost to taxpayers, Chacon said.

In San Diego and elsewhere in the state, it will put low and moderate income families in their own homes. It will also aid elderly people and younger people who do not qualify for conventional loans.

In San Diego 1,400 construction jobs will open with passage of the proposition, said Chacon. Zenovich said the bill was devised to aid the poor and near-poor who have been priced out of the market for decent housing.

Homes will be built in single and multiple units in the 1,110-1,400 square foot range.

Consumers Benefit From New Utility Legislation in Calif.

Two major utility-related measures introduced by Assemblyman Bob Wilson (D-La Mesa) have been signed by Governor Brown. The measures, Assembly Bills 3496 and 3658, are aimed at lowering utility bills and informing customers on the billing practices of their utility companies.

A.B. 3496 requires public utility companies who estimate meter readings to indicate that billings are based on estimates. Also, if such an estimate is incorrect, it must be corrected by the next billing period.

Under A.B. 3658, electric or gas corporations selling fuel oil at a higher price than its purchase price must credit the profit from the sale, plus interest against its expenses before a customer rate increase can be granted.

Parachute Team Featured at Oct. Air Show

The U. S. Navy Parachute Team has translated a highly sophisticated form of airborne infiltration of enemy defenses into a graphic art.

Attendees at NAS Miramar's 1976 Bicentennial Air Show on October 23 and 24 will see the aerialists in a spectacular demonstration of free fall parachuting.

A display of keen aerial maneuvers combined with multi-colored smoke trails are featured in the routine.

The show gets under way at 1 p.m. both days. Admission is free, but no bleacher seats will be available. The air base recommends visitors to bring folding chairs or blankets.

Mills' Visitor Center Gets Governor's Nod

A bill by Senate President Pro Tempore James R. Mills, creating a visitor's center at Anza Borrego Desert State Park, has been signed into law by Governor Brown.

The Mills bill approriates $400,000 to build the center.

Mills introduced the legislation at the request of the State Parks and Recreation Department.

In urging Governor Brown to sign the bill, Senator Mills said that architect's fees for the visitor center have been donated by the Anza Borrego Natural History Association.

More Exemptions for Welfare Recipients

All Californians receiving public assistance are now eligible for 80 per cent of the homeowners' exemption on their property tax for 1976, provided they file a claim with their county assessor before 5 p.m. December 1, 1976.

Iris Sankey, Member, State Board of Equalization, said today that Assembly Bill 2972 (Boatwright) provides that persons who have been ineligible for homeowners' exemption since 1968 because they receive public assistance may now apply to their county assessor for the exemption.

Included are homeowners who receive Aid to the Potentially Self-Supporting Blind (APSB), Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC), General Assistance (GA), and recipients of the gold-colored check from the U. S. Treasurer marked "State Payments Included," or any other assistance from the state, county, or city.

NOTICE OF INTENT TO ANNEX PROPERTY TO THE SPRING VALLEY FIRE PROTECTION DISTRICT ZONE I

Resolution No. 76-15

Resolution Initiating Proceedings For Annexation Of Territory to Special Fire Protection Zone

On motion of Director Allen, seconded by Director McPherson, the following resolution is adopted:

WHEREAS, pursuant to provisions of the District Reorganization Act of 1965 (Government Code Section 56000 et seq.) this district recently annexed certain territory of the Otay Municipal Water District; and

WHEREAS, pursuant to Chapter 12 (commencing with Section 13991), Part 2.7, Division 12 of the Health and Safety Code this district has established a special fire protection zone for the purposes of levying a tax to pay hydrant rental charges and related costs; and

WHEREAS, public interest and necessity demand the annexation of a portion of the Otay Municipal Water District territory recently annexed as aforesaid, for the reasons that a hydrant rental charge has been placed upon each and every hydrant in that portion of the Spring Valley Fire Protection District supplied by the Otay Municipal Water District, and the Board of Directors feels that this charge should be borne by those benefiting directly from the hydrants; NOW THEREFORE

IT IS RESOLVED, ORDERED AND DETERMINED that pursuant to Health and Safety Code Section 13991 et seq. this board proposes to annex to this district's special fire protection zone a portion of the territory of the Otay Municipal Water District which was recently annexed to this district as aforesaid, the boundaries of said portion which are shown on attached map (grey area on map above within heavy blue lines is already within the Spring Valley Fire Protection District Zone I), and the legal description is on file in fire district's office.

IT IS FURTHER RESOLVED AND ORDERED that a public hearing on the question of the annexation of the above-described territory to the special fire protection zone as aforesaid will be at 7:30 o'clock P.M., on October 28, 1976, at 905 Gillespie Drive, Spring Valley, California. Any person interested, at or before the hearing, may file with the district board a written objection to the proposed annexation. At the hearing the district board will hear and determine all protests and objections.

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that the Clerk of this Board cause notice of the aforementioned hearing to be published and posted pursuant to the requirements of Health and Safety Code Section 13394.

PASSED AND ADOPTED by the Board of Directors of the Spring Valley Fire Protection District this 23rd day of September, 1976, by the following vote:

Out of the Cold

Royal P. Nelson addressed a letter to the editor which was printed in last week's issue.

He did not include his address as is normal for people who wish to see their observations in print. Nor was he findable through various directories and the local Post Office had not heard of him.

But Royal P. Nelson visited us. He provided enough ID to convince us he is a person. The material was published as it was written.

Attention was called to the failure to capitalize the letter of "American."

Nelson claimed he had his boss write the letter and the error was that of his boss.

This material is offered, in addition to other reasons, to illustrate how elections heat up as the Day of the Vote nears.

Here's his latest.

The Editor

Dear Editor:

Regarding your recent reply to my letter that I was a fictitious person, I accuse you of yellow journalism of the lowest order.

Your statement was made without any base in fact. Furthermore, your mentioning my not capitalizing the word American either implies that I am anti-American or that I made a grammatical mistake. Since you don't know my political beliefs there is no way you can honestly imply an anti-American statement on my part. (It was a typographical error).

It strikes me as extremely coincidental that you stated your policy on letters to the editor has been to print them as is correcting only grammatical errors. Why did you not do it in this case? Why this personal vendetta?

Your implying that I was a fictitious person was ludricrous. A good journalist would never espouse something he could not prove. I hope your readers become aware of your shoddy journalistic methods.

Very truly yours,
Royal P. Nelson

What's a friendly kid like you, with a San Diego mailing address, doing messing around in Lemon Grove school board politics?

Park Money Here

Dear Editor:

I hope people realize just what they are voting for when they decide on the Park and Recreation District's maintenance areas.

Do they realize that the monies to purchase these park sites are already there in their respective area accounts, and cannot be spent unless they pass the maintenance tax required? This money has been collected since 1973 from a portion of the building permit fees, and has been adding up all this time.

Some areas have considerable money collected. Spring Valley has close to a half million dollars to purchase park sites and will lose that money unless the required maintenance money is there.

There are five maintenance areas involved. Spring Valley's proposition letters are AA, and I do urge a YES vote for this measure.

Sincerely,
Patricia G. Kellogg

More Units Readied At Rancho San Diego

Casa Diego, a 74-unit housing complex in Rancho San Diego, is nearing completion, its developer reported recently.

The $1.48 million project is being built on a 3.8 acre site at 10130 Austin dr. near Sweetwater Springs blvd. Fredricks Development Corp. are the builders.

As with six other residential developments at Rancho San Diego, Casa Diego is close to surrounding elementary schools, two junior high schools and two senior high schools.

The homes are twelve miles from downtown San Diego and offer residents tennis, swimming, stables, picnic areas, golf courses and baseball diamonds.

Casa Diego is part of the master-planned community of 4,620 acres.

Sanitation District Makes Hay With Ramona Used-Water Project

By Carl Laundrie

The accent is on recycling today!

And the County of San Diego has gotten into the act with a project that recycles sewage into water usable for irrigation.

Farmer Ned Collin grows hay on 35 acres of a 300-acre County owned site. Collin uses the hay to feed 38 dairy cows. Collin's 35 acres are irrigated by the Ramona Sanitation District (RSD).

125 acres of the 300-acre parcel are set up to be irrigated but the sewage plant can presently supply only enough effluent to irrigate 35 acres.

The effluent is pumped from the reservoir to large sprinklers located at intervals on the area under cultivation.

According to County of San Diego, Senior Sanitary Engineer Gary Decker, the project is a success.

"The County picked this area at the west end of Ramona Valley because it was close to the R.S.D. and we were able to purchase 300 acres near the sewage treatment plant," Decker said.

The project is located three miles from the R.S.D. sewage treatment plant. The sewage effluent (water removed in the treatment process) is used to irrigate the land. The effluent is piped to the project and stored in a reservoir on the site.

"The sewage plant produces some 130,000 gallons of effluent a day. The effluent has a bacteria count low enough to be used for raising fodder crops to feed livestock," said Decker.

"We chose a type of hay called canary grass because it soaks up a large amount of water and prevents runoff," said Decker.

Not only is the liquid effluent used in watering the land, but sludge, a by-product of the treatment process, is used to fertilize the soil.

"When we started the soil was poor but after a year of treatment the soil has improved considerably," said Decker.

Collin, who farms the land, says the soil has improved despite the fact he harvests over eight tons of hay a season from the 35 acres.

"The soil now holds the moisture a lot better. Of course with any crop you have to put something back into the ground to make up for what the crop removes. The effluent and sludge help to replace the nutrients," said Collin.

According to Decker the County has plans for a similar project in Julian using effluent to water forest areas.

3 Juveniles Charged with 8 Commercial Burglaries

One clue led to another until 8 burglaries of three firms in the Lemon Grove industrial area were closed by the Sheriff's Lemon Grove office recently.

According to Detective Richard Lindsay, assigned to the investigation, three male young teenagers, have been charged with the burglaries. They are 14 and 15 years of age.

The 8 crimes in adjacent buildings were started on July 21 when tools valued at $200 were taken from Universal Electric at 6510 Federal blvd.

Universal was burglarized five more times: August 4, 5, and 31, and September 3 and 6.

On August 5 office equipment worth $400 was also removed from West Coast Structural Beams at 6530 Federal.

On September 9, stamps and a calculator were taken from J. C. Ek Machine and Steel Co. at 6540 Federal.

The buildings had been entered by tearing off sections of the metal siding.

The three youngsters live in San Diego just south of Lemon Grove.

The amount of the loss in the thefts was not available.

Records indicate that the first break in the thefts occurred September 14, Lindsay said.

Chamber Task Force To Study Stricter Pollution Controls

Lu Quinney, San Diego Chamber of Commerce Planning Division manager, has been elected chairman of a 27-member industry task force established to work with local air pollution control officials.

The panel will study the possible effects of a new clean air regulation on which the Air Pollution Control District will make a ruling October 25.

The regulation (APCD Rule 20.1) would sharply limit pollutants at many types of facilities. It was to have been adopted by the County Board of Supervisors, sitting as the APCD, in September but the ruling was delayed after objections by the Chamber of Commerce and other industry representatives.

The Chamber maintained that the potential economic impact of the regulation had not been properly studied and urged development of a task force to work with the APCD.

The task force will meet on Mondays throughout October. It plans to make a thorough examination of the possible effects of the proposal, and is scheduled to report to the Board of Supervisors by next Thursday with suggested changes.

United Way Opens Three New Offices

The three branch offices of United Way programs have moved to a new location in order to improve their service to residents of East County.

Staff members of the Retired Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP) and of two divisions of United Way's Volunteer Bureau, are now at 215 East Douglas, El Cajon.

The two Volunteer Bureau divisions are the Court Referral Program and the General Recruitment and Referral Program.

The move to the 670-square-foot facility was made necessary because of need for larger quarters and to facilitate easy access to public transportation.

Parents Gripe

firmed that the walk was long and that traffic was heavy on Mt. Vernon and 69th streets. It took the superintendent 32 minutes to walk from Laconia st. to Lemon Grove Jr. High, he said.

While sympathetic to the concerns of the parents, the board stood firm on its August decision which, several trustees said, was based on fiscal necessity.

State subsidy reductions during the last five years have increased the local transportation cost burden in the district from 50 per cent to 80 per cent.

Cyclist Grounded

While Densmore was asleep in his residence at 8949 Lamar st., Spring Valley, a thief used bolt cutters to remove the garage door lock, police reported.

White Collar Crime

Beware Hidden Charge In Appliance Repairs

Fifth in a Series

By Ed Miller
County District Attorney

The common malfunction of everyday appliances is another fact of American life which is preyed upon by the "white collar" criminal.

A broken washer or TV set can be the source of unexpectedly high charges to the unwary consumer.

The uncertainty and dishonesty can be minimized, however, if the consumer insists on a written estimate of the charges and a written work agreement before any work is performed.

Few consumers know anything about the intricate innards of a television set, washing machine or other major appliance. This makes the repair business a lucrative field for the unscrupulous.

In the case of the broken TV, although most sets can be repaired in the home, the con artist will say the set must be taken to the shop for repairs. Permitting this opens the consumer to a charge for transportation and a "bench fee," a charge simply for putting the set on the work bench.

In fact, many TV repairmen are not really repairmen. They are service truck drivers paid simply to bring sets into the shop. Once the phony gets the set in the shop, the repairman not only makes adjustments and needed repairs, but sometimes replaces parts which are not needed or charges for labor not performed.

These charges can be eliminated by asking the repairman to complete a written work agreement based on his examination of the set in your home. If he will not do so, do not allow him to take the set or do the repair work.

It pays to deal only with reputable firms in obtaining service or repairs. So, it is good practice, when calling a repairman, to find out if he charges a transportation fee or a service fee before permitting him to come to the home. If he does, save money by taking the set to his shop.

Scams Not Scarce

These repair scams on major home appliances are not rare. With more than 200 million appliances in use in the United States, the average American family is the operator of hundreds of dollars worth of complex mechanical equipment.

As in other lines of business, the majority of dealers and servicemen are fair and honest. But a small minority use various tricks and devices to take advantage of trusting customers.

Advertising Bait

Some of the schemes in retail sales of the major home appliances involve "bait" advertising.

The pitch is an alluring offer to sell something which the advertiser does not intend to sell, does not want to sell, tries not to sell or deliberately avoids selling. The purpose is to get the customer into the store or the salesman into the home to sell something else instead, usually at a higher price.

Consumers run a double risk in doing business with a "bait" advertiser. Anyone who will trick you to make a sale won't hesitate to trick you by specializing in poor service, shoddy products, failure to observe guarantees or even outright fraud.

A copy of a booklet alerting consumers to all types of con games and white-collar schemes can be obtained by writing: Buyer Beware, c/o District Attorney Ed Miller, 220 W. Broadway, San Diego, CA 92101.

AS EYES STRAY, SO DOES CAR — Roy N. Tucker, 24, of San Diego was driving northbound on Massachusetts ave. last week, Wednesday afternoon, when a motorcycle for sale on private property caught his eye. As he gazed at the cycle, his car drifted into the parking lane and struck the parked van owned by Kathleen Bennett. The driver, who was alone in his car, sustained head, arm and knee lacerations and rib injuries. No one was in the van which CHP officers say traveled 20 feet before striking a utility pole.

Auto Club Spouts Flash Flood Advice

The old bromide, "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure", is particularly good advice to follow when in and around flash flood areas according to the Automobile Club of Southern California.

The back county havoc created by hurricane Kathleen a few weeks ago prompted the auto club to recommend some preventive practices to motorists involved in a flash flood.

Robert J. Cheney, the Club's public safety manager, counsels motorists to use sound judgment and exercise extreme caution when warnings are posted or broadcast.

"Prevention is the main thing to remember," he said. "Always heed the warnings. If you're in the locale, or headed in that direction, reconsider traveling in that area. Take an alternate route until you hear it's safe to go that way.

"If you have enough warning, and time permits, head for high ground," Cheney continued. "Roll up your windows and stay in the car.

"If you're in flat, open country, try to outrun the onrushing water. If that's impossible, turn directly into it and be certain the windows are rolled up tight. When a car goes directly into a flood, it offers the least resistance. If the car is hit broadside, it's almost certain to be toppled and swept away."

Keeping the windows closed serves two purposes. It preserves the air and, more importantly, prevents floating debris (rocks, logs, etc.) from striking those inside and knocking them unconscious.

Staying in the car will, again, protect the driver and passengers from being hit by debris or the current from throwing them into a fixed object.

Continuing, Cheney said "It's extremely important that you don't panic when your car is caught in a flash flood. Normally, there's a sufficient amount of air inside to last for a period of time. When the air supply up front becomes depleted, move to the higher portion of the car."

"The weight of the engine will cause the front part of the car to nose downward, so move later to the back seat."

The safety executive said it's useless to try to open the doors and windows immediately. They won't open until pressure from water seeping inside the car builds up sufficiently to equalize the pressure outside.

For example, when water inside rises to within 12 to 14 inches of the ceiling, it's easiest then to smash the windows open (with a hammer, hard shoe heel, etc.) and climb out. Depending on the turbulence of the water, you may want to climb on top of the car or trudge away to a permanent structure.
